Wall Street Told to Get on Board

President urges top CEOs to support his regulation overhaul

New York

President Obama rebuked Wall Street for risky practices Thursday even as he sought its leaders' help for "updated, common-sense" banking regulations to head off any new financial crisis.

"Ultimately, there is no dividing line between Main Street and Wall Street. We rise or we fall together as one nation. So, I urge you to join me," said in a high-stakes speech near the nation's financial hub. His audience included some of the nation's most influential bankers.

The president acknowledged differences of opinion over how to best protect bailout-weary taxpayers but denounced criticism from some Republicans who claim a Democratic-sponsored bill headed for Senate action would encourage rather than discourage future bailouts of huge banks.

Burning La. Oil Rig Sinks

11 missing workers feared dead; oil spill
possible underwater

New Orleans

A deepwater oil platform that burned for more than a day after a massive explosion sank into the Gulf of Mexico on Thursday, creating the potential for a major spill as it underscored the slim chances that the 11 workers still missing survived.

The sinking of the Deepwater Horizon, which burned violently until the gulf itself extinguished the fire, could unleash more than 300,000 of gallons of crude a day into the water. The environmental hazards would be greatest if the spill were to reach the Louisiana coast, some 50 miles away.

Crews searched by air and water for the missing workers, hoping they had managed to reach a lifeboat, but one relative said family members have been told it's unlikely any of the missing survived Tuesday night's blast. More than 100 workers escaped the explosion and fire; four were critically injured.

A fleet of vessels had shot water into the rig to try to control the fire enough to keep it afloat and keep crude oil and diesel fuel out of the water. Officials had said the environmental damage appeared minimal, but new challenges have arisen now that the platform has sunk.

The well could be spilling up to 336,000 gallons of crude oil a day, Coast Guard Petty Officer Katherine McNamara said. She said she didn't know whether the crude oil was spilling into the gulf.

The oil will do much less damage at sea than it would if it hits the shore, said Cynthia Sarthou, executive director of the Gulf Restoration Network.

"If it gets landward, it could be a disaster in the making," Sarthou said. (AP)

Passenger on 'No-Fly' List Removed From a Plane

Air Security

U.S. federal agents detained a passenger on a New York-bound jet from West Africa, telling passengers the man was on a "no-fly" list and ineligible for international travel for security reasons.

Customs and Border Protection agents detained the man while the Delta Air Lines jet stopped to refuel in San Juan, Puerto Rico, after an overnight trip from Dakar, Senegal. The flight originated in Nigeria, the native country of a man accused of boarding a Detroit-bound airplane in December with a bomb hidden in his underwear.

The name and nationality of the flier were not disclosed. Customs and Border Protection issued a statement identifying him only as a "potential person of interest," who was taken for questioning.

Passengers told The Associated Press that the captain announced over the intercom that a passenger had been identified as being on a no-fly list while the jet was over the Atlantic. He made the announcement shortly after a U.S. agent escorted the man in a T-shirt and jeans off the plane. BEN FOX (AP)

Clegg Holds Edge in U.K. Debate

Polls suggest Liberal Democrat could be kingmaker in May

London

Nick Clegg proved he wasn't a one-hit wonder in Britain's second election debate Thursday, holding his own against Labour's Prime Minister Gordon Brown and the Conservatives' David Cameron over thorny issues such as Afghanistan, the Catholic sex abuse scandal and the special relationship with the United States.

An initial poll gave Clegg a slight edge in the debate, but it appeared to be close to a three-way tie. Still, Clegg managed to keep some of his political stardust — respondents said the Liberal Democrats' 43-year-old leader seemed the most honest.

Clegg shook up the race last week, emerging as a clear winner after giving a smooth and confident performance in Britain's first U.S.-style election debate and boosting his party's profile.

Thursday's debate came as dozens of anti-war protesters and other activists clashed with police outside the studio hosting the prime-time duel. Pro-Palestinian groups outside protested Israeli incursions in Gaza. Others held placards that read, "Troops Home!" There are 10,000 British troops still stationed in Afghanistan.

It was the closest Britain has come to the famous 1960 Nixon-Kennedy debate — every grimace and blemish were seen in high-definition TV format. The candidates' performances make the razor-close May 6 vote even harder to predict.

Polls suggest that no party will win an outright majority. That situation could turn the Liberal Democrats into a kingmaker, bartering with both Labour and the Conservative for things they want — namely electoral changes that could weaken Britain's traditional two-party system. PAISLEY DODDS (AP)

Clinton Resists Early Nuclear Cuts in Europe

Tallinn, Estonia

Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton on Thursday ruled out an early withdrawal of U.S. nuclear forces from Europe, telling NATO leaders that any reductions should be tied to a nuclear pullback by Russia, which has far more of the weapons in range of European targets.

No such talks with Russia are in the offing, and Moscow has shown little interest thus far in bargaining away its tactical nuclear arms.

Clinton also said the Obama administration wants NATO to accept missile defense as a core mission of the alliance, making it part of a broader effort to combat the dangers posed by nuclear, biological and chemical weapons. She said missile defense and nuclear weapons are complementary means of deterring an attack on the U.S. and its alliance partners.

A copy of her prepared remarks, delivered at a private dinner she attended with representatives of 27 other NATO member countries, was provided by her staff. (AP)

Blasts Hit Thai Protests

Grenades kill one near opposition rally in center of Bangkok

Bangkok

At least five grenades exploded Thursday in the center of Bangkok near the scene of political protests in Thailand, killing one person and wounding at least 75, sending panicked people running through the streets and fleeing an elevated train station.

The area of the explosions has been the site of a tense standoff between Red Shirt protesters, who are demanding Prime Minister Abhisit Vejjajiva resign, and armed troops over the past several days.

More recently, a rival group of protesters has rallied in the area, occasionally hurling stones and insults at the Red Shirts, creating a volatile mix. Several of the blasts were near where the rivals have gathered, under the elevated tracks of a Skytrain station.

Deputy Prime Minister Suthep

Thaugsuban said in a speech broadcast Thursday night on all Thai channels that five M79 grenades were fired from launchers within the Red Shirts' encampment.

Three fell through the roof of the station, which runs above Silom Road, the center of Bangkok's business district and also home to several strips of go-go bars. A fourth exploded on the pavement near the five-star Dusit Thani Hotel and the fifth near a bank, he said.

The Red Shirts, who think Abhisit came to power illegitimately and are pushing for him to call elections immediately, have rallied in the streets for several weeks. On Thursday, the army warned time was running out for the protesters to clear the streets, saying soldiers would crack down soon.

A Closer Look at the Sun

Scientists say stunning new images will help them unlock the star's mysteries

Bozeman, Mont.

Piet Martens has been working for 30 years to unlock the secrets of the sun.

On Wednesday, thanks to a new solar observatory from NASA, he came face-to-face with the object of his life's work in glorious, mind-bending high definition.

"The quality of the images — it's totally amazing," said Martens, a Montana State University solar scientist who is also working on the NASA project. "We will be able to do great science with this."

NASA officials on Wednesday showed off the first set of dramatic pictures from the Solar Dynamics Observatory (SDO), an orbiting spacecraft that is on a mission to document the mysterious workings of Earth's nearest star. Launched into space on Feb. 11, the $856 million solar observer is the most advanced spacecraft ever to study the sun.

Despite the potential for new discoveries, the impact of the observatory won't be limited to the pages of astronomy textbooks. Martens and NASA officials are confident that the satellite will generate mountains of data that could help scientists finally understand — and perhaps someday predict — the movements of "space weather."

Understanding space weather is a crucial task for scientists because the celestial events can cause huge headaches on Earth. Violent solar storms and ejections of gases from stars can disrupt GPS navigation systems; interfere with communications on airplanes; disrupt power systems and cell phones; and even endanger the lives of astronauts in orbit.

for millions of residents.

NASA scientists predict the new solar observatory, which is orbiting 20,000 miles above the Earth, will be as revolutionary in astronomy as the famed Hubble telescope, which has been taking groundbreaking photos of space for two decades.

In one movie taken by the SDO that was shown by NASA Wednesday, the red-glowing sun could be seen spewing out explosive filaments of fiery gases. Images from the spacecraft showed the sun as a pulsing globe in vivid blue, gold, red and green as million-degree temperature changes were translated into different colors.

Martens and MSU physics professor Dave McKenzie helped design a four-telescope instrument called the Atmospheric Imaging Assembly that was mounted on the SDO. Instead of viewing just a quarter of the sun, as previous instruments did, the device captures the star in its full glory.

"We never have to decide again where to point," Martens said. GAIL SCHONTZLER (AP)

Charges Dropped in SE Drive-By

Police unsure teen accused in shooting was involved at all

Washington

Authorities have dropped all 41 charges against a 14-year-old boy accused in a drive-by shooting that killed four people in the District because police are now uncertain whether he was involved in the attack at all, law enforcement and D.C. government sources said.

The sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity because the investigation is continuing, said prosecutors from the city attorney general's office filed documents in juvenile court to dismiss the charges on Thursday morning.

Although a police sergeant identified the youth as the person she saw driving the minivan used in the March 30 attack, one of two adults who allegedly were in the van has told homicide detectives that the teenager was not with them, one of the sources said.

When the boy saw the officers, the source said, he put his hands in the air. He did so, apparently, not because he had been involved in the shooting but because he was an absconder from the juvenile justice system in an earlier criminal case, and he assumed that police had come to arrest him, according to the source. St. Elizabeths Opens New Building

St. Elizabeths entered its new home Thursday, with the official opening of the $161 million hospital building that the District hopes will carry the city's historic psychiatric institution into a new era.

In a ribbon-cutting ceremony Thursday morning, city leaders said the new building signaled the city's commitment to creating a modern mental health system and to putting to rest the troubles that have dogged the hospital for the past few decades.

"This is a great day for D.C.," Attorney General Peter Nickles told the crowd of hundreds gathered in front of the new building for the ceremony.

It was Nickles who, as a private lawyer, helped bring a 1974 federal class-action suit over conditions at St. Elizabeths, and it is Nickles who, as the top legal adviser to Mayor Adrian M. Fenty, has pushed for an end to the 36-year-old case, saying the city's mental health system has made great strides and no longer requires court supervision.

The judge in the case, Thomas F. Hogan, and his appointed monitor, Dennis Jones, have both expressed optimism that the class action might be nearing its end, and both were among the honored guests at the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

On Thursday, though, the focus was on the future of St. Elizabeths and the 293 patients who will be moving into the new building in the coming weeks. "This will just be a way station," Stephen T. Barron, the director of mental health, told the crowd. "This will not be people's home. This will be a place to recover and return to the community." HENRI E. CAUVIN (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Caps Go Deep

Much of the talk in this series has been about Alex Ovechkin, Nicklas Backstrom and goalie Semyon Varlamov — and deservedly so. But it's the Capitals depth that has produced some particularly back-breaking moments — such as shorthanded goals by Mike Knuble (right, being celebrated by Ovechkin after he scored on Wednesday) and Boyd Gordon — and helped fortify a 3-1 series lead. Washington has had 17 players register a point through four post-season games, more than any other team in these NHL playoffs.

Closing Time for Caps

After blowing series lead to Pens last year, team looks to finish

The Capitals

The Washington Capitals have a little extra incentive to close out their Eastern Conference quarterfinal series against Montreal Friday night when the action returns to Verizon Center for Game 5.

After defeating the Canadiens 6-3 Wednesday night to take a 3-1 series lead, the Capitals boarded their charter flight bound for Dulles International Airport around 11:30 p.m.

But because of fog, the team's flight was re-routed from Dulles to Reagan National Airport and then to BWI Airport, where they landed around 1:30 a.m.

"I know a lot of us, we don't want to have to go on a plane again to Montreal."

— JOE CORVO, CAPITALS DEFENSEMAN, JOKING ABOUT FINISHING OFF THE SERIES AGAINST THE CANADIENS. GAME 6 WOULD BE HELD AT MONTREAL'S BELL CENTRE.

With no customs agents on duty at that hour, the team's charter sat on the runway for three hours until, finally, the Capitals took cabs either to their cars at Dulles or straight home. Defenseman Joe Corvo, one of the few players to appear at the team's training facility Thursday since practice was called off, said he didn't get to his bed until 5 a.m.

"I know a lot of us, we don't want to have to go on a plane again to Montreal," Corvo joked before turning serious. "It's in our best interests to finish it [Friday] and put our best foot forward because the closing game is never the easiest; it's usually the hardest."

In terms of first-round experience, Friday night will be a new one for this group of Capitals. The past two seasons they've been the ones trying to dig themselves out of a 3-1 hole. But after taking a 2-0 lead over

Pittsburgh in last year's Eastern Conference semifinals, players such as Eric Fehr said they now realize, "teams have an extra killer instinct when they're faced with an elimination game."

If the statistics this season are any indication, though, it's Washington that has developed a knack for playing its best when the stakes are highest.

After outscoring opponents 112-68 in the third period during the regular season, the Capitals have outscored the Canadiens, 9-4, in four third periods thus far.

"Every team that's up 3-1 would like to finish it, and we'll try our hardest tomorrow to win," said coach Bruce Boudreau.

"But I'm sure Montreal will try their hardest to survive."

For Guzman, It's Read and React

After losing starting job, new utility man makes the most of it

The Nationals

Cristian Guzman still doesn't quite feel right at second base.

After 11 years playing exclusively as a shortstop at the big-league level, it's been an adjustment. The perspective is different, the timing changes. He's essentially turning the double play backward.

And right field? That's nothing like shortstop or second base. Another challenge.

When manager Jim Riggleman informed Guzman that he'd been beaten out at shortstop by rookie Ian Desmond, there were two ways he could react. He could get lost inside his head, dwelling in self-pity, maybe demand a trade. Or he could adapt.

After all, Riggleman vowed there were plenty of at-bats to go around for Guzman, Desmond and second baseman Adam Kennedy.

So, Guzman adapted. Entering Thursday, he'd played in nine games at second base, five at shortstop and three in right field. One of the biggest concerns about him in spring training was his arm strength coming off surgery last year. And indeed he has struggled to make throws from the hole between short and third. He two-hopped a throw to first earlier this week, allowing an infield single.

After 11 years in the majors at shortstop, Cristian Guzman lost his starting position to rookie Ian Desmond in spring training.

But he's been an adequate defender, making only one error thus far, that coming as a second baseman.

"It's not easy," Guzman said. "I'm not 100 percent comfortable, but a little bit."

Guzman regularly arrives early for extra fielding practice, and coaches and teammates have noticed the effort he's put in. After he initially balked at playing second base when the idea was pitched to him last fall, many wondered how he'd react this time around.

"He's been a real professional," said Riggleman, whose most impressive managing job thus far may be his ability to keep all Guzman, Desmond and Kennedy productive and happy. "All three of them are playing great."

Each played in at least 14 of the team's first 16 games, and each has contributed to victories.

And offensively, it's been Guzman leading the way. He's kept his infield upheaval separate from his approach at the plate, and his .333 batting average entering Thursday was easily the highest of the three players.

Said Guzman: "I just go up there and see the ball and swing." DEREK TURNER

Brewers Pound Pirates, 20-0

Major League Baseball

Jim Edmonds, Ryan Braun and the Milwaukee Brewers went batty Thursday, piling up 25 hits and trouncing the Pittsburgh Pirates 20-0.

Edmonds homered, doubled twice and singled. Braun homered, doubled, singled and drove in five runs; and Prince Fielder hit his first home run of the season — they were among 10 players with an RBI.

Milwaukee led 10-0 after five innings, then scored six runs in the seventh and four more in the ninth. The rout came a day after the Brewers beat up Pittsburgh 8-0.

George Kottaras also homered, and Rickie Weeks scored four runs and had three hits as the Brewers won their fourth in a row. (AP)

Men's College Basketball

The NCAA plans to expand the men's basketball tournament from 65 to 68 teams beginning next year and announced a new, $10.8 billion broadcasting deal with CBS and Turner Broadcasting on Thursday that will allow every game to be shown live for the first time.

"This is an important day for intercollegiate athletics and the 400,000 student-athletes who compete in NCAA sports," interim NCAA president Jim Isch said.

"This agreement will provide on average more than $740 million annually to our conferences and member schools."

The men's tournament last expanded in 2001, adding one team to the 64-team field that was set in 1985.

Talk of tweaking March Madness again generated a lot of chatter from fans worried about watering down the competition and those fearing the additional bracket guesswork involved in predicting a winner.

Under the new deal with CBS and Turner, the Final Four will air on CBS through 2015.

Less than four weeks ago, turning the NCAA's signature event into an 80- or even a 96-team field seemed like all but a done deal.

During the Final Four, NCAA vice president Greg Shaheen talked extensively about the plans to go to 96, saying the three-week event would start two days later and eliminate the play-in game.

Surefire lottery pick from Kentucky wants to give mom new life

Pro Basketball

John Wall looked toward the back of the room at his mother, Frances Pulley, and just shook his head.

Kentucky's freshman star remembers the way she worked multiple jobs while he was growing up so they'd be able to get by. The long days that would leave her exhausted, so tired she didn't always get to see him play.

He knows it's time to start paying her back and why the opportunities — and the riches — that lay ahead in the NBA outweigh returning for his sophomore season.

"I just want to set up a better life for my mom," Wall said Thursday.

"All the work she put in after my dad passed, she had two to three jobs and not really seeing her as much. People ask me what I'm going to do with my money; I ain't worried about it."

John Wall's size and speed will likely make him the top pick in the NBA draft this year.

But more games would have been added to Week 2, and that caused concerns about how much class time the athletes would miss.

Shaheen also cautioned then that nothing had been decided.

Any move hinged on the NCAA's $6 billion, 11-year television deal with CBS Sports, which has broadcast championship games since 1982.

The NCAA's new, 14-year agreement with CBS and Atlanta-based Turner Broadcasting System Inc. runs from 2011 through 2024. It means that every game next March will be shown live — on CBS, TBS, TNT or truTV — for the first time in the tournament's 73-year history.

Next year, everything through the second round will be shown nationally on the four networks. CBS and Turner will split coverage of the regional semifinal games, while CBS will retain sole coverage of the regional finals, the Final Four and the championship game through 2015.

Beginning in 2016, coverage of the regional finals will be split by CBS and Turner; the Final Four and the championship game will alternate every year between CBS and TBS. MICHAEL MAROT (AP)

If his name is the first one called by NBA commissioner David Stern at Madison Square Garden on June 24, he'll become the first Kentucky player to be taken with the top overall selection.

Not that Wall is concerned about when he'll make his way to the stage.

"If I get that No. 1 pick, it's going to be a dream come true," said Wall, who has yet to hire an agent. "But no matter where I go, I'm going to be happy because I reached my goal." WILL GRAVES (AP)

David Beckham, shown playing for the L.A. Galaxy in '09, earns $40M annually.

Beckham Still Reigns In Earnings

Soccer

Forbes magazine says David Beckham still reigns supreme as soccer's top-earning player.

The 35-year-old midfielder earns $40 million annually, with much of that coming from sponsors such as Adidas, Giorgio Armani and Motorola. But Beckham is expected to lose major sponsorship money this year because he will miss the World Cup in South Africa after tearing his Achilles' tendon in March while on loan from the Los Angeles Galaxy to AC Milan.

Portuguese midfielder Cristiano Ronaldo is second on the Forbes list, earning $30 million a year. Ronaldo's major sponsors include Nike, Coca-Cola and, like Beckham, Giorgio Armani.

Ronaldo, the 2008 FIFA Player of the Year, became the highest-paid soccer player in the world in June when Real Madrid bought the 25-year-old winger from Manchester United for $130 million. He signed a six-year contract that pays an estimated $15.5 million in the first year, then increases 25 percent each season.

Brazilian playmaker Kaka, Ronaldo's teammate at Madrid, is third on the list, earning $25 million annually. (AP)

Charla Krupp

STYLE EXPERT, OVERALLS HATER

If you are Kate Moss. Heidi Klum or some other skinny model, stop reading. But if, like most women, you sometimes think your [fill in the body part] looks chunky or your [fill in the item of clothing] makes you resemble Rush Limbaugh, then style expert Charla Krupp's new book, "How to Never Look Fat Again" ($27, Springboard), should top your reading list. The ageless bombshell — whose "How Not to Look Old" was also a best-seller — will give dress-thin advice at Bloomingdale's at Tysons Corner Center this Saturday at 1 p.m.

What surprising ways do women make themselves look heavier?

One strange one is that wearing tall white knee socks with athletic shoes makes your legs look fat. The shorter ones look much cooler.

Can accessories fatten you up?

Yes. If you are a larger woman and you're carrying a little tiny clutch just big enough for a lipstick, it's going to look off, like it's your lunch box. And small women shouldn't carry Mary Kate and Ashley-style bags. It looks like their luggage!

What about shoes?

The wrong shoes can really kill your look. For instance, anyone that has a wide foot or heavy calves doesn't want to call attention to the foot or leg. So, ankle-strap shoes just have to be avoided — they cut your leg in half. The gladiator sandal look is not for you.

In the book, you claim even your haircut can make you look fat.

Yes — hair makes an enormous difference because it's such a part of your face. The classic, chopped bob like Anna Wintour's is hard for anyone heavy to wear. And anyone who has a wide face benefits from a little more hair.

Do petites face special dress-thin challenges?

Yes, and I'm petite, so I'm very into this problem. Like capri pants!

"If you are a larger woman and you are carrying a tiny clutch, it's going to look off, like it's your lunch box."

We don't have long legs, so the last thing you want is a pant that makes your leg look shorter. And we can never wear flats, because we need the height badly.

Which current trends do women no favors?

One is transparency. No one wants to see your rolls. And another is micro-miniskirts. They're impractical. Women have to drive, bend over, get into the car. Who wants to flash a thong whale-tale going about their daily life?

If you could banish three fattening items from all closets, what would they be?

First, sweat suits, which make you look boxy and like you have no waist. And then those hideous sneakers in white. And overalls! I just don't get them. They don't show off your figure. They're like a big baby's bib.

Dear Manolo

ANSWERS FROM THE SHOE BLOGGER

Thanks to the onrush of time, I've decided, Hillary-like, that I must cover my legs. However, I have decided that the maxi-dress, not the pantsuit, will be my concealer. I've found one from J. Crew, a Grecian number in a color called "abyss blue." What sandals go with it? — LAURA

Manolo says, whenever one of the Posse Manolo announces that she will henceforth, forever and the day, be covering her legs, the Manolo has two thoughts.

The first is that the Manolo wishes middle-aged men would cover their legs, not middle-aged women. Every spring the appearance of the knobby man knees below the khaki shorts makes the Manolo pine for fashions of Victorian England. (And this is before considering the toe-based destruction wrought by "mandals".)

Secondly, the Manolo laments the demise of the pantyhose. Yes, it is wonderful we live in the age of freedom and inappropriate casualness, where everyone is able to wander about in sweat pants and tube tops.

Sadly, it is the ladies of the certain age who have paid the price for these relaxed standards. When your grandmother discovered she had the spider veins and the tiny belly bulge, she simply changed her hosiery color from "nude" to "opaque" and cinched up her girdle one more notch. Problem solved just in time for canasta!

Look! Here is the Kula from Diane von Furstenberg ($249, Zappos.com), the golden Greek sandal that will leave you looking like Aphrodite.

Make a summer tailgate great with cool gear, haute food and chilly, chic drinks

➡ There's a rusty old poem that goes on about a jug of wine, a hunk of bread and thou. But when it comes to getting your alfresco eat and drink on, it helps to go beyond carbs and hooch. D.C.'s warm weather pleasures — ball-games, big-name concerts and even some highfalutin horse races — call for both passionate picnicking and good-looking gear.

Thankfully, taking it outside doesn't involve rocket science — it's really about grabbing (or making) some good vittles, lassoing some friends and please, please not forgetting the wine opener. But different events call for different alfresco battle plans.

For instance, before each D.C. United home game, members of the 1,200-strong Screaming Eagles fan group gather in the parking lot at RFK to grill sausages, quaff beer and trade stories about road trips to Atlantic City and past seasons when David Beckham would come to visit.

"It gets people excited about the game," says Jeff Howdeshell, the fan club's tailgate director. "Some members bring pizza, but most go for chicken, ribs and sausages. Then we play beer pong or cornhole and hang out until the game starts." Over the years of tailgates, Screaming Eagles have tried almost every grill-worthy substance from tofu to that great American standby, the hot dog.

But whether your moveable feast is headed to a Virginia hunt country steeplechase (mmm, mint juleps) or a dinosaur rock evening at Wolf Trap, we have ideas to make your feast moveable and memorable. ERIN HARTIGAN

D.C. United's Screaming Eagles fan club tailgates with Miller Lite or kegs of domestic beer, but you can take the drinks to a new level with this brew cocktail Rachel Sergi, below, of Agaiinn (1099 New York Ave. NW; 202-639-9830) created in the team's colors, black and red.

BALL GAMES

Football may get all the tailgating hype, but soccer's die-hard fans congregate on the hottest summer days to stoke the grills and rally the troops. The Screaming Eagles, D.C. ## OUTDOOR CONCERTS

Tunes. Blankets. Stars. Whether you jam to My Morning Jacket at Merriweather Post Pavilion (May 1) or revel in a blast from the past at Wolf Trap (like the Backstreet Boys June 9), a concert under the summer skies amounts to a night of clubbing, sans annoying hipsters standing in your sight lines and overpriced Rolling Rocks. In lieu of boring Tupperware, pack your nosh in a tiffin (stackable round tin). Bright bird-themed Kashmiri ones ($20, Proper Topper, 3213 P St. NW; 202-333-6200) will spruce up any spread. To-Go Wares makes a simpler two-tin version. ($20, Greater Goods, 1626 U St. NW; 202-449-6070)

Wolf Trap does not allow grills on the grounds, so fill your basket with gourmet salads and sandwiches from the Butcher's Block. (1600 King St., Alexandria; 703-894-5253)

Don't fall victim to grass stains: Pick up a bright, Indian-print John Robshaw blanket to lounge on. ($138, M29 Lifestyle, 2828 M St. NW; 202-295-2829)

No need to death-grip your beer as you sway to the music. Tovolo's Steady Sticks let you stake your longnecks in the lawn ($5 each, Hill's Kitchen). Wine glass-grasping models are also available.

End the meal with mini whoopie pies from local B. Hall Baker ($30 for 12; Bhallbaker.com). More portable than cupcakes, the bite-sized sweets come in flavors such as peach mango and chocolate.

There are even competitions for best themes and most decadent spreads.

Cop Secret

There are pros and cons to being married to a cop. Yes, it gets you out of speeding tickets. But try borrowing his tweezers — no matter how close you think you've returned them to their original location, he's going to notice. And not because your brows suddenly look more groomed.

By Kristen Page-Kirby

Watching a cop movie with a cop means you're bound to see things in a new light. "The Secret in Their Eyes," which won the Best Foreign Language Oscar, is compelling for a lot of reasons — the script, the performances, a director who ensured every frame was packed with meaning — but it was personally a pleasure because my husband liked it. Esposito (played by Ricardo Darin, above), a retired investigator haunted by a long-closed case, worked the way I imagine the cop on the other side of the dinner table does. He's methodical but follows his hunches; he's caring but has his limits. (Part of the reason I love my husband is Marge from "Fargo" is one of his favorite cinematic cops.)

We all have movies that resonate with us on a visceral level. I point to the 1994 version of "Little Women" and say, "That. That is what it's like to have sisters." And I point to "High Fidelity" and say "Look. I dated that guy. A few times." Watching "Secret" let my husband, who reads Handguns magazine while I read the New Yorker, say, "There. That's what it's like to be me."

Some Winning Touches

Though 'The Losers' is highly silly, it's a fun film that refuses to feign seriousness

Film Review

The first dumb-fun action movie of the summer season arrived early this week with "The Losers," a loud, loving homage to guns and testosterone based on a series of comic books about a renegade band of CIA operatives. What? You were expecting maybe Oscar bait?

Not from a movie with characters named Cougar and Pooch. And not from a movie whose visual style was inspired by a comic-book illustrator who goes by the single name Jock. It's dumb, adrenalized fun, filled with flying knives, broken glass, fireballs, guns and some kind of next-generation bomb called a "sonic dematerializer," also known as a "snuke." In the film's one cheesy special effect, a small island is shown being broken up by sound waves, kind of like a giant kidney stone.

'The Losers'

- ▶ Time: 98 minutes
- ▶ Director: Sylvain White
- ▶ Stars: Jeffrey Dean Morgan, Idris Elba, Chris Evans, Columbus Short, Oscar Jaenada and Zoe Saldana
- ▶ In a Nutshell: A group of commandos left for dead by their CIA handler set out to get their revenge with the help of a mysterious femme fatale (Saldana).
- ▶ For Fans of: "Kick-Ass," "The Fantastic Four," "Iron Man"

(Come to think of it, the whole cast should get a special Academy Award just for being able to say "snuke" while keeping a straight face.)

The plot centers on a group of commandos led by Clay (Jeffrey Dean Morgan, looking like Robert Downey Jr.'s 1996 mug shot). Known as the Losers, Clay's team consists of his right-hand man Roque (Idris Elba); communications and tech wiz Jensen (Chris Evans); driver Pooch (Columbus Short); and sharpshooter Cougar (Oscar Jaenada). Betrayed and left

Leading Lady

Woman of Action

In an interview with Trailer Addict, Zoe Saldana discussed how well cast "Losers" was and gave the lowdown on her character, Aisha. "She is this person that just appears to them out of nowhere," Saldana says, "and makes them an offer that's too good to be true, but at the same time, one that they can't refuse." She also said working on "Avatar" prepared her for the action movie/stunt aspects of "The Losers," and that she enjoyed filming some of the more playful fight scenes. (EXPRESS) for dead by their psychotic CIA handler, Max (Jason Patric), they set out to get their revenge before Max can detonate a snuke in Los Angeles as a ploy to justify a U.S. military crackdown on terrorism.

Aiding them in their mission — or is she? — is a mysterious femme fatale (Zoe Saldana).

Along the way, expect a couple easily spotted plot twists, not to mention the Losers' Teflon-like ability to wade into a hailstorm of bullets and keep fighting. Truth be told, a couple of them do get shot, but the occasional flesh wound hardly seems to slow them down.

That humor, in the end, is what saves "The Losers" from itself. No one — least of all director Sylvain White, and writers Peter Berg and James Vanderbilt, working from comic book creator Andy Diggles source material — takes any of this very seriously. From Pooch's automotive mascot, a bobblehead Chihuahua doll named Mojito, to Jensen's rotating wardrobe of silly T-shirts, "The Losers" has a surprisingly light — and winning — touch. # Take a Stroll Down Mediocrity Lane

'The Back-Up Plan' is not only a contrived rom-com; it trivializes an important subject

Film Review

Even though the appealing Alex O'Loughlin scores his first leading-man role in "The Back-Up Plan," this is a vehicle for Jennifer Lopez, who is front and center, and looking totally flawless at all times.

The first time we see her character, Zoe, she's at the doctor's office with her feet in the stirrups being artificially inseminated. The script from Kate Angelo offers this helpful voice-over nugget: "Oh, God, I hope this works. I've wanted this for so long." Yeah, it's like that.

Director Alan Poul hits every obvious note, complete with pratfalls, pregnancy clichés and cheesy pop-music cues that signal the characters' emotions in painfully literal fashion.

All these devices are in service of a plot that's pretty thin. After years of looking for the right guy, Zoe is prepared to have a baby on her own, only to fall for Stan (O'Loughlin) just as she's discovered she's pregnant. And since they get together early, the rest of the movie consists of contrived flare-ups that threaten to keep them apart.

"The Back-Up Plan" actually could have been helpful in addressing a situation in which so many women find themselves: wanting to be mothers but unwilling to settle for the wrong man. Instead, it presents the fellow members of Zoe's single mothers group as tattooed, fringy freaks. CHRISTY LEMIRE (AP)

WHAT DO YOU WANT TO DO TONIGHT? BY FRITZ HAHN, RHOME ANDERSON AND DAVID MALITZ

FRIDAY

Some promoters flit between clubs like hummingbirds, setting up popular events, running them until interest dips or there's a conflict with the venue owner, and taking off for a new spot. If you read the fine print on flyers or e-mails, you've seen the names Eric Taylor, Cheeky Sasso and Terry Frasier around D.C., hosting parties like the long-running Flirt at MCCXXIII, monthly parties at Gin and weekly affairs at Tuscana Lounge, among others. Now the three are joining forces at BAR 7 for the weekly Fuzion Fridays. The setup seems familiar — an open bar from 5 to 7 p.m., hip-hop and R&B tunes, and a fashionable crowd. Get in while it's hot: Get on the guest list by e-mailing your first and last name to tlfrasier@aol.com or visit Eviplist.com for more information and free admission.

SATURDAY

What we like most about the semi-regular Hometown Heroes dance parties is that they deliver exactly what they promise: great local DJs spinning electronic music. No special guests from New York or Berlin. No over-the-top themes. Just something like this: Fort Knox Five spinning funk, breaks and hip-hop, Eighteenth Street Lounge resident Farid Ali playing eclectic dub and breakbeats at the TRINIDAD AND TOBAGO CLUBHOUSE, which is a refreshingly large and unpretentious place to cut loose.

SUNDAY

If you had to name most the influential nightspot of the last 15 years — leaving out concert venues like the 9:30 Club — we don't really think there'd be much argument about the winner. The EIGHTEENTH STREET LOUNGE — and its owners, the DJ duo Thievery Corporation — put D.C.'s nightlife culture on the global map, drawing musical tourists from around the world. ESL celebrates its 15th anniversary this weekend, and it's doing it properly, focusing on the residents who've built the Lounge into something special. Thievery Corporation headlines, ensuring long lines outside. The $10 cover includes food. If you're worried about lines, tickets allowing entry between 5 and 11:30 p.m. are offered on the ESL Web site.

ALICE IN WONDERLAND (PG, 109 minutes) Tim Burton has wisely avoided producing a mere pop-up illustration of Lewis Carroll's books, instead finding inspiration in Alice (Mia Wasikowska), the Mad Hatter (Johnny Depp), the Red Queen (Helena Bonham Carter) and other familiar characters, and putting them into a brand-new story. Burton's signature gnarled, gothic aesthetic runs throughout, but it's the women who steal the show, from the somber, self-possessed Wasikowska to Bonham Carter's scenery-chewing tantrums, to Anne Hathaway's very funny turn as the White Queen. (AH)

CLASH OF THE TITANS (PG-13, 118 minutes) Director Louis Leterrier made a muddled disappointment with this one. What appeal the movie has comes from its two biggest-name stars: as Zeus, Liam Neeson struts around in a disco-inspired silver outfit that shines so brightly we can barely see his face. As his brother Hades, Ralph Fiennes swoops up from the underworld in his own cloud of dirty smoke, like an infernal Pig Pen. They're welcome counterpoints to Sam Worthington's Perseus. Sent off in search of a way to kill the Kraken, the leviathan who is the gods' greatest weapon, Perseus and his band of merry misfit soldiers hack and slash their way through a rogues' gallery of quasi-mythological creatures. The movie's conclusion promises a sequel; unfortunately, it's too big to fail. DAN KOIS

DATE NIGHT (PG-13, 87 minutes) A self-described "boring married couple" gets mistaken for blackmailers and spends 90 minutes going through contortions to clear their names, to mildly amusing effect. In the hands of, say, a Greg Kinnear and a Sarah Jessica Parker, the thing could be a disaster. It's not. Not by a long shot. That's because Steve Carell and Tina Fey have something that no movie, no matter how predictable, can stifle. It's called chemistry, but it's not the romantic kind. Instead, it's the power that each of them has to crack the other up. Aiding Carell and Fey in their efforts is a talented supporting cast that includes James Franco and Mila Kunis as the real blackmailers along with Mark Wahlberg as a black-ops consultant whose help the Fosters seek. I know: It doesn't make sense. It doesn't have to. All it needs to do is make us laugh. (MO)

DEATH AT A FUNERAL (R, 118 minutes) Danny Glover hurls vulgar verbal ordnance in Neil LaBute's adaptation of the 2007 British comedy by Dean Craig. Glover plays Uncle Russell, a cantankerous old coot in a wheelchair who swears a blue streak and has nary a kind word for anybody at the funeral of his brother. But it's entirely in keeping with the original movie, whose antic idea of humor included an errant corpse, wincingly graphic bathroom humor and a man tripping on LSD while traipsing naked on a rooftop. tive sons of the deceased, along with Zoe Saldana and Tracy Morgan. Fans of the broad slapstick and ludicrous farce that propelled the original will be well served by the remake. (AH)

GREENBERG (R, 100 minutes) A delicate, if slightly smoggy, feeling of regret hangs over this quietly funny portrait of grown-ups growing up by Noah Baumbach. Ben Stiller plays Roger Greenberg, a 40-year-old Brooklyn carpenter. He befriends Florence (Greta Gerwig), who exists in the same provisional, painfully self-conscious not-quite-there-ness as Greenberg himself. Stiller inhabits his character's neuroses so thoroughly that it's easy to forget what a challenge it is to make such misanthropy the least bit compelling. (AH)

GREEN ZONE (R, 115 minutes) Paul Greengrass' wartime thriller, set in the early days of the Iraq conflict, is a jangly, noisy, compulsively restless thriller on a par with the "Bourne" movies, shot through with political critique. Matt Damon plays U.S. Army Chief Warrant Officer Roy Miller, who after the U.S. invasion in 2003 has been tasked with finding the weapons of mass destruction on which the war was predicated. There's no denying the film's propulsive energy and the tantalizing idea of Damon's making everything all right as a brave, morally infallible soldier. (AH)

HOT TUB TIME MACHINE (R, 93 minutes) The raunchy, guy-centric comedy makes a vertiginously high-concept bid to be this year's version of "The Hangover," and darned if it doesn't succeed. John Cusack,

Rob Corddry and Craig Robinson star as estranged best buds who go on a ski trip and wind up athwart of the time-space continuum. It's a movie that on paper makes you despair of contemporary cinema; on screen, though, it's proof that execution is everything. (AH)

HOW TO TRAIN YOUR DRAGON (PG, 90 minutes) Our hero in this briskly paced computer-animated 3-D film, Hiccup (voice of Jay Baruchel), is a young Viking who has his hurdles cut out for him. Hiccup's father, a burly giant named Stoick (voice of Gerard Butler), sports a belt-length red beard and looks as if he begins each day by downing a dozen mead shooters on his way out to slay scaly adversaries. Hiccup develops his own approach to dealing with the dragon threat; he prefers communication and attempts to help all scaly creatures find their inner Puff (-the-Magic). MIKE CLARK

THE JONESES (R, 89 minutes) The pleasures this film offers a moviegoer are inversely proportional to the amount the moviegoer knows about it beforehand. David Duchovny's easy charm, and his uneasy mien, have rarely been put to better use than as Steve, who makes friends effortlessly but is having trouble keeping a secret from the world. And the brittle, driven Kate, the real engine behind the family's social success, is the best role that Demi Moore has had in years. But by the end, it feels a little too satisfied with its own admittedly clever conceit and for the broad leeway it allows itself in the creative bandying of logos and slogans. DAN KOIS

KICK-ASS (R, 118 minutes) This profane, ultra-violent, surprisingly winning adaptation of Mark Millar's comic-book series directed by Matthew Vaughn should delight fans of the original comics and garden-variety action junkies, too. Aaron Johnson plays Dave Lizewski, a bespectacled, mild-mannered high school student who, after being mugged for the umpteenth time, wonders why more everyday people don't dress up like superheroes and become vigilantes. Soon thereafter, Dave is dressing up in a green wet suit, yellow rubber gloves and work boots and ... pretty much getting his tushie whipped. When Dave is joined by two mysterious cohorts named Big Daddy (Nicolas Cage) and Hit-Girl (Chloe Grace Moretz), however, his success rate begins to spike. (AH)

the germinal 1970s all-girl rock band is so distilled and formulaic that it's almost an abstract version of the classic musical biopic. Because Floria Sigismundi's film is based on lead singer Cherie Currie's memoir, and because Runaways co-founder Joan Jett was a producer, it's no surprise that they claim pride of place in the movie's schematic narrative. Kristen Stewart portrays Jett as the steady, serious and most sexually liberated member of the group. Dakota Fanning — whose wide-eyed, sun-kissed innocence recalls Kate Hudson in "Almost Famous" — teeters as if on Currie's own vertiginous platform heels between little girl and grown-up. Sigismundi leaves it to viewers to decide whether the Runaways were simply a manufactured novelty act, a bold expression of female empowerment or a little bit of both. (AH)

TYLER PERRY'S WHY DID I GET MARRIED TOO? (PG-13, 121 minutes) The film covers pretty much the same histrionic territory as Tyler Perry's 2007 picture "Why Did I Get Married?" picking up our core group of attractive, dysfunctional black couples three years after we last left them in snowy Colorado. This time they gather for relaxation and renewal in the Bahamas. For the first hour or so, it plays like an empty but diverting beach read. Then the film shifts in tone. Perry throws in many melodramatic plot twists in the last 10 minutes, and a cameo appearance that drew gasps and giggles from the audience. JEN CHANEY

Person Of True Interest

YOU DON'T KNOW JACK
SAT
9:00

On HBO, Al Pacino stars as the celebrated, notorious, iconic and — to director Barry Levinson — deeply misunderstood Dr. Jack Keenorkian. Of course, this movie is about the man known as “Dr. Death,” an advocate of physician-assisted suicide who became the center of a national debate in the 1990s. But “You Don’t Know Jack” is best appreciated as a character study.

Serving Artists

“Party Down” (10 p.m., Starz, Fri.) returns for a second season. A strong ensemble cast with great chemistry play struggling actors, writers and assorted has-beens who work as caterers-waiters on the periphery of Hollywood. Adam Scott, above, stars as Henry, a once-promising actor whose talent was eclipsed by his role in a famous beer commercial. K.M.

Horoscope

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You are likely to be introduced to an activity that catches your interest on a deep and lasting level. This is a viable option.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone close to you is relying on your ability to see through the veneer at this time. He or she needs your help but cannot ask directly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Resist the temptation to take over. Indeed, your needs are better served by letting others call the shots at this time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The party scene certainly holds certain attractions for you, as always, but you'll have a good reason to steer clear.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't hide a current upset from others. Talking about what ails you will help you realize that you have much in common with others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) The moment you think that you're in it alone is the moment in which you've let circumstances get the better of you. You're never alone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You can have more fun than you ever dreamed of, but be willing to shed a few inhibitions and accept an unusual invitation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Your attraction to a certain someone goes beyond what one might call a friend. But are you ready to take it to the next level?

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll want to talk about how you are feeling. There are those who can surely help you, but they can't read your mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You'll have the opportunity to extend the limits of what you would normally do in some situations. Be a little naughty.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Your taste for the good life isn't something to take lightly at this time. Trouble may beckon on at least one occasion.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're likely to be introduced to a kind of experience that changes how you think about the way things should be.

Samurai Sudoku

DIFFICULT

Fill in each column, row and 3x3 box with the digits 1 through 9 without repeating any. The twist in Samurai Sudoku is that the digits that appear in the overlapping boxes must work for both puzzles. A piece of advice to get you started: Don't focus on completing one grid at a time. Keep the whole puzzle in mind as you go, because filling in a number in one grid could give you clues to another.
